LINCOLN county is entitled to eleven delegates in the coming republican state convention.

THE independents will hold their county convention to select delegates to the state convention on Saturday next. The basis of representation gives the convention ninety-eight delegates.

MR. WILSON, the new chairman of the ways and means committee, thinks no tariff legislation can be undertaken during the present extra session, but work on that line will be started as soon as possible after the convening of the regular session.

CHOLERA, where it exists in Europe, baffles the attempts of the authorities to suppress it. More pest-haunted vessels are likely to reach our shores before frost sets in, but there is good ground for hope that it cannot obtain a footing here.

SENATOR VOORHEES declares that "there is no more fraud in the pension system than there is in any other institution incident to human affairs," and so the administration will have to look elsewhere for a defender of its pension-dropping policy.

THE republican state convention to nominate candidates for justice of the supreme court and regents of the university has been called to meet at Lincoln, Oct. 5th, the day following the democratic state convention. The late date of the convention means a short but aggressive fight and a consequent republican victory.

If the Era is "fernist" gaz and gang rule it will have all it can do to look after the independent county convention, without making predictions as to what the republicans will do. The fellows who have dictated the nomination of Buchanan and Hawley will undoubtedly see that their other pets get the plums.

If there should be as much wrangling among the democrats on the tariff as there has been on since the protective system will not be hurt much by the present congress. The suggestions regarding tariff reform which are made by conspicuous democratic politicians and papers at times indicate that the party is not altogether harmonious on the question.

ONE MILLION paid admissions to the world's fair was the record for last week and it is expected that the attendance from now until the close of the fair will increase each week. During the Centennial the paid admissions for the six months amounted to 8,004,274, while up to last Saturday-night the paid admissions to Jackson Park were 9,406,242. It is now confidently expected that the total paid admissions to the world's fair will reach 20,000,000.

THE people will be glad to know that General Hastings and John L. Webster, the attorneys for the state board of transportation will make a lively fight against the railroads in their attempt to annihilate the maximum rate law. It is understood that figures will be produced to show that some of the roads, notably the B. & M., have varied their stock until it is more than three-fifths fluid, and yet they have paid from eight to ten per cent dividends.

An inter-state irrigation convention will be held at Salina, Kansas, September 28th. Each county of the states of North Dakota, South Dakota, Wyoming, Nebraska, Colorado, Kansas, Texas and New Mexico are requested to send three delegates. It is believed that from the inter-state convention will result an organization which will secure the aid demanded of the general government and will attract the attention of the entire nation to the question of irrigating the vast domain of fertile territory which is now left in a semi-barren condition by the hot winds of July and August.

A MONTH ago it required about two columns of a daily newspaper to record the bank and business failures, but now a half column suffices. It will also be noticed that many suspended banks are resuming and the wheels in a number of large manufacturing are being set in motion after remaining idle for a month or so. Matters promise to adjust themselves to a certain extent, at least, before cold weather sets in. The worst feature of the situation is the great army of unemployed workmen in the large cities whose outlook for work during the winter cannot be said to be bright.

ANALYSIS of the chairmanships of the fifty-five house committees, says the Bee, shows the following facts: Chairmanships conferred on southern states, thirty-two; chairmanships on eastern and middle states, eleven; chairmanships on western states, twelve. Thus the fourteen southern states have nine more chairmanships than the other thirty states, and this not all for the most important and influential of these positions are held by southern men. The committee which is charged with formulating a new fiscal policy for the country that will effect every industrial interest has at its head a representative from West Virginia, a state with a population only a little more than half that of the city of Chicago and with industrial enterprises whose value does probably not exceed a hundredth part of the value of that city's industrial enterprises.

As was expected, the Wilson bill for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law passed the house by a vote of 239 to 110. Voting occurred first on the various amendments providing for ratios of sixteen to one up to twenty to one, and then on the repeal of the Bland-Allison act. The vote on the amendments was as follows: Sixteen to one, for 124, against 226; Seventeen to one, for 100, against 240; eighteen to one, for 102, against 239, nineteen to one, for 105, against 237; twenty to one, for 110, against 222. Restoring the Bland-Allison act, or 110, against 239. On an initial vote, for a ratio sixteen to one, the Nebraska delegation voted as follows: For—Bryan, Kem and McKeighan. Against—Hainer, Mercer and Meiklejohn. On the final vote on the proposition for unconditional repeal Bryan, McKeighan, Kem, Hainer and Meiklejohn voted against and Mercer for. The action of the senate is not so easily foreshadowed. It is probable that body will present amendments of its own which will be for present repeal but pledging the government to a policy of bimetallism. When the final vote will be reached is uncertain. The senate will talk silver the rest of this week and is not in a hurry to press the question to a vote.

Figures that Relate to Labor.
Very nearly 300,000 immigrants, mostly from Central Europe, are almost wholly made up of the class that competes with and that tends to cut down the wages of American labor, landed on our shores during the months of March, April, May and June.

The free trade journals were accustomed to howl against the protective tariff as a means of exciting immigration by causing such high wages as induced the poverty-stricken of Europe to flock hither. It was a shallow and a knavish plea, for if followed to its logical conclusion it would have demanded that American wages should be cut down to the lowest standard recognized in the poorest countries of the old world in order that its people should not be tempted to come here in the hope of self-betterment. But shallow and knavish as it was, it deceived many.

It is to be kept in mind that the republican administration, intent on giving direct protection to American labor, passed a law for the restriction and regulation of immigration. It not only passed such a law, it enforced it.

In February last, the last month of republican administration, no more than 12,586 immigrants were allowed to land in New York.

In March last, the first of democratic administration, the number was increased to 42,639. This is an increase, as the American Economist justly remarks, of 300 per cent in one month.

In the second month of an administration pledged to the destruction of all forms of protection to American labor, the number of immigrants rose to 75,261, which is greater by 600 per cent than under the protection given to home labor by republican enforcement of the republican law for restriction of immigration.

In the third month of democratic rule the number of immigrants rose to 95,385. This is greater by 800 per cent than during the last month of republican rule.

These are some of the figures. They prove that the democratic party has commenced its free-trade crusade by lawlessly neglecting to enforce the law made by republicans for the direct and special protection of labor. It has hesitated before striking "the rich and bloated capitalist," but it lawlessly has assaulted him whom it hypocritically affected to pity as "the poor workman."

In this crisis, this time of depression of American labor, there should be a vigorous appeal made for the enforcement of the immigration law. Had the February rate—the republican rate—prevailed during the first four months of Cleveland's administration the number of immigrants would have been 50,000, instead of nearly 300,000, which is at the rate of 900,000 a year.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The London (England) papers declare that they are satisfied with the decision of the Behring sea arbitrations. England really has gained regarding some theoretical points, which have always been considered by us as very doubtful. But the practical point, that protection must be given to the seals is decided in our favor. If that is satisfactory to England, it is all right, and certainly satisfactory to us. Let them blow over it. The Canadians seem not to agree with their mother country, they are silent and undoubtedly very much dissatisfied, because their seal poaching must be stopped.

Ex-Governor Lewis Wolfley, of Arizona, is at the head of the enterprise known Gila Bend canal and reservoir. When completed it will irrigate 200,000 acres of the Arizona desert, which, as has already been proved, only lacks water to make it bloom and blossom as the rose. The cost of the great dam of the Gila river was $840,000. The canal will be thirty-eight miles long and be ready for use the coming year.

English mine owners have given notice of a 25 per cent reduction of the already starvation wages, and the miners' federation has ordered a strike of 250,000 men. And yet a great party in the United States is doing its best to push manufacturing and labor onto an English basis.

In the make up of the committee of the house announced by Speaker Clegg last week it is found that the Nebraska members were fairly well looked after. Congressman Mercer, of the Second district, secured a place on the committee on public buildings and grounds, the position for which he had applied, and is naturally well satisfied with the outcome. Congressman Hainer gets a place on the committee on agriculture, and the committee on control of the alcoholic liquor traffic. Congressman Keem, on the committee on Indian affairs and the committee to examine the expenditures for the agricultural department, and Congressman McKeighan his old place on coinage, weights and measures. Congressman Mikeljohn on the committee of public lands and on invalid pensions.

In his "round-up bulletin" Secretary Furnas names many new and novel attractions recently obtained for our state fair. Besides an unusually strong line of attractions in the speed ring, there will be a bicycle tournament on the race track on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of fair week. A large tent will be provided by the fair management for the free use of various state societies, etc., and Monday, Sept. 13, is "Old Settlers' day." Tuesday, Sept. 14, has been selected by the "Sons of Vermont" as their day; "Sons and Daughters of Nebraska" will have their day, and so on through the list. Tuesday is school children's day, and not only Nebraska school children, but all school children of the world will be admitted free to study this great object lesson.

There was great indignation among the national guard yesterday because the Fibertian rifles carried the green flag of their organization instead of the blue state flag prescribed by law and the regulations. This was in bad taste and peculiarly unfortunate on a day devoted to Illinois. During the war for the union many of the Irish regiments carried green regimental flags instead of the regulation blue, the inscription on the green flag being the same as on the blue flag. But in the case of the Fibertian rifles, lately admitted to the national guard, the action was illegal and out of harmony with the idea of state troops. Who was responsible for such a blunder?—Chicago Inter Ocean, Aug. 25th.

The price of hay has declined in continental Europe and it no longer pays to export it from this country. This was to be expected. There are so many other sorts of fodder of easier transportation than hay that the latter will never be taken across the seas in any considerable quantity. The small proportion of nutriment to its bulk disqualifies it for a very long haul. Hay is selling in the mining camps of Colorado now at two dollars a hundred, but it costs about a dollar a hundred to transport it to the camps from Denver.

Let no one remark now that congress has been in session for three weeks and has done nothing. It has passed a bill to give itself mileage. According to a law passed by the prodigal republicans years and years ago, no mileage could be drawn for a called session. In the interests of economy and the circulation of the hoarded currency in the treasury, the first democratic congress in thirty-three years repealed the law at its first measure, and the mileage is drawn. Whether the railroad got a penny of it is another story.—Journal.

Bishop Turner, president of the Methodist-Episcopal-Missionary Society in an address before the congress in the art palace has declared and tried to prove that "black was the original kind of mankind," that this first black race was followed by an intermediate color of red, after which finally the white race came. We are sorry for all those great painters, who erroneously gave such a nice, white skin and Caucasian beauty to Adam and Eve.

A dispatch from Decatur, Ill., states that thirty-three old soldiers of that vicinity have received notice of the suspension of their pensions for sixty days and that they will not be reinstated without new evidence to establish their claims. The entire number, it is stated, is incapable of doing manual labor. Old soldiers who want to put this in their pipes and smoke it will find something entirely new and not a great deal to their liking.
